ABOUT WORKIT

Workit is a South African two-sided marketplace for everyday work — Uber-style, but for local jobs. Households and businesses post tasks (gardening, cleaning, trades, deliveries, tutoring, errands and more) and nearby ID-verified workers accept or send a counter-offer. The work is done, paid in cash or EFT, and both sides rate each other. It is built trust-and-safety first, runs as a low-data Progressive Web App on low-end Android, and is available in English, Afrikaans and isiZulu.

WHAT MAKES WORKIT DIFFERENT

- Trust is built in: every worker is identity-verified by a real person before they can take jobs — ID, proof of address and proof of skill, with optional liveness and police-clearance checks.
- Proof of work: time-stamped completion photos and two-way ratings create a verifiable work history and reputation.
- Safety by design: live job tracking and an in-app SOS button linked to emergency services during active jobs.
- Built for South Africa: low-data, works on any phone, multilingual, cash/EFT first with in-app payments on the roadmap.

WORK CATEGORIES

Home & garden (gardening, cleaning, pool care) · Skilled trades (plumbing, electrical, painting, tiling, carpentry) · Moving & errands (bakkie hire, deliveries) · Driving & delivery · Personal services (car wash, hair) · Tutoring & education · Care · General labour · Tech & digital.

MISSION & IMPACT

Workit exists to make a real dent in youth unemployment — connecting people who need work with people who need work done, in their own neighbourhoods, with the trust and dignity of a verified profile and a visible track record. Launching province by province, starting in Gauteng.

STAGE, MODEL & TEAM

Stage: live and in early marketplace launch in Gauteng; verification, proof-of-work and the verified-worker record are built and in use. Model: free to use during launch; a small platform fee is planned and users will be told in advance. Team: founder-led (Tshepo Joshia Moyo), with a second administrator (Simphiwe Msibi) and a growing verification capacity. Partnerships: in active conversations within the Harambee Youth Employment network, and exploring collaboration with BluLever Education.
